Café Jacques, a bucolic interlude in Paris

Nestled within the lush, private garden of the museum, Café Jacques provides a peaceful escape in the heart of the city. Designed by Aliénor Béchu from the Volume ABC agency, this modern café features white marble tables, tawny leather chairs, and a transparent design that allows for plenty of natural light. From its terrace, guests enjoy an uninterrupted view of the Eiffel Tower. This “hidden gem” with direct access to Gilles Clément’s landscaped garden is a perfect venue for cocktails or dinner events.
